

MAN KILLS SELF NEAR BLAKELY

By shooting himself with a revolver, a man whose identity railroad officials have not ascertained committed suicide yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock while in the smoker of a Central of Georgia passenger train the tragedy occurring just beyond Blakely, Ga.

The man got on the train at McRae, Ala. and is reported to have been acting queerly prior to the shooting. Just after the train had gotten out of Blakely the stranger pulled his revolver and fired once, but missed. His second shot was more accurate. The man is said to have been in the employ of the Britton Lumber Company at Lakewood, Fla. and his identity will have doubtless been established when the lumber company is communicated with.

No motive for the suicide is known.

FRECKLES

One of the most important of features of the current season at the city auditorium is the first presentation here of Neil Thaw's new play, "The Sign of the Cross," by the St. Andrew's Bay Railroad Company's right of way, south by the lands of Laver Hays and K. H. Richards, west by Appletree street, containing three and one half (3 1/2) acres more or less, situated in the city of Dothan, Houston county, Alabama.

The fact that there have been more readers of this story than any other book published in the city of Dothan is a testimony to the popularity of the play, "The Sign of the Cross," by the St. Andrew's Bay Railroad Company's right of way, south by the lands of Laver Hays and K. H. Richards, west by Appletree street, containing three and one half (3 1/2) acres more or less, situated in the city of Dothan, Houston county, Alabama.

THOMAS PLANS CHAIN OF FAIRS

Tenders Resignation as Manager of Auditorium—Some Good Shows Seen Here—Should Maintain Standard.

Because he will be busily engaged in arranging a chain of fairs for next season, Fred H. Thomas has tendered his resignation as manager of the municipal auditorium, effective January 1 and will begin his new work.

Mr. Thomas expects that the new work he has agreed to undertake will require most of his time and efforts.

From Dothan, where he has served two seasons as secretary of the Southeast Alabama Fair Association, Mr. Thomas will go to Selma, where he accepts a similar position there, although he has not announced when he will leave.

The organization of a circuit of fairs, having the same bookings, attractions, race horses, etc., has long been a cherished wish with Thomas, and he now hopes to be able to carry out these plans for next season. This work alone will require a great deal of attention.

Under the management of Mr. Thomas several excellent shows have appeared at the auditorium this season. While all the shows have not been up to the standard this was due to the booking agents and producers, and was not the fault of the local manager. This possibly to the unprofitable theatrical season last year, show producers have been a bit wary about sending expensive and first class attractions South. Dothan got a large share of such as "equus some good, some indifferent and some bad, but for that matter other Southern cities were in the same plight.

However, in view of these insurmountable difficulties, it may be safely said that the auditorium has had a number of attractions which were really up to the standard, and which found favor here.

It is to be hoped that the policy of the auditorium will not be changed in regard to attractions and that Dothan will continue to get the higher priced shows.

The moving picture, cheap vaudeville and burlesque has no place in the auditorium, and it is not believed that the city council will lease the house for such purposes.

The people of this city want the auditorium to continue to have the higher priced attractions, leave the movies and small stuff to others who pay license to operate such businesses in Dothan and do not receive such a liberal patronage at that.

Of all sad words

E'er yet were spoke,

The saddest are these:

Old Santa left me broke.

Yes, Ca'line; you expect a surgeon to be a regular cut-up.

A hard and fast rule usually works hard but not fast.

This is the season when many would like to lose their grip.

Wish somebody'd give us a paragraph factory for a New Year's gift.

Speaking correct English is another one of the few fields where there is little competition.

It is to be hoped the hospital project will not enter a dying match with the commercial club.

Even success is not permanent and the leading merchant today may be a follower tomorrow.

If you want the people to vote for a measure better not give it a tax raising name.

Wonder how that poet fellow found out the flower blushed if it blushed unseen.

Birmingham didn't want an amendment allowing them to raise taxes and didn't want the balance of the state to want them to want to.

If the council is not going to allow merchants to operate punch boards they should not allow worse gambling devices operated by every street fair that comes along.

There are entirely too many traveling men in this section especially at this season of the year. They do not ask for orders either, as other traveling men. They ask for a dime and a bite to eat.

The gripe is headed this way: In fact a small battalion has already arrived, and it is of a violent type everywhere appearing this winter. Be prepared. Live as much as possible in the open air; keep the windows of your bed room open all night; don't overeat; don't drink intoxicants; don't go in crowded theatres unless you have a pass; don't kiss unless the kiss is unusually attractive. Then you might take a chance. There are other rules of prevention, but these are the most important. No charge. You're welcome.

PAY UP NOW.

January first is right at hand. Suppose every one who owes a bill here and there, should pay it? It would make a vast deal of difference. The first of the year is a good time to have a reckoning; then let every one hunt up those old accounts that have been hanging fire and make some satisfactory arrangements. The community will be in much better shape if this is done.

INTIMIDATION?

Under a Gadsden headline, one finds the following in one of the daily papers: "The tip has gone forth among friends of the state administration here, it is claimed, that unless the $1,500,000 bond issue election is successful members of the various boards of equalization will be instructed to increase tax assessments on a general basis."

This might be taken as a threat.

As a matter of fact, the county boards of equalization will know about as much as any one else as to what the property should be assessed at. They are not going to be intimidated by the administration, or any one else, into doing something that they don't think is right, just to spite the taxpayers of Alabama for not voting a million and a half dollars in bonds.

FIRST TWO YEARS OF THE FAIR.

Retiring Secretary Fred Thomas, of the Southeast Alabama Fair Association, gives out some figures that tend to show that the stockholders of the fair association have no room to complain. In fact, they are not complaining.

He says the association has a Land and Building account, valued at $25,000, and the stockholders paid in $15,000. They have received back as dividends this year, 12 per cent, on the stock, and after paying all outstanding indebtedness, there remains a cash balance on hand of $4,000, which would show that the association has really paid around 100 per cent.

And this too, with the first two years of the association's history. There isn't another fair association in the country, no doubt, that has made such a record.

REMEDY THIS EVIL.

Savannah News.

By finding a means to lighten the burden imposed on cities of the Southeastern states by the transient pauper evil the conference of municipal officials at Jacksonville next month would become one of the most important meetings in the South in a long while. A heavy tax is paid every year to the custom of "passing along" paupers from place to place; and it must be said that the tendency of some cities to make "dumping points" of others has contributed to the growth of the evil and has tended to prevent such a conference as that to be held at Jacksonville. Common sense would dictate a policy of co-operation among the cities of this section rather than a continuance of efforts to pass paupers along to the most convenient neighbor community.

The problem the conference will tackle will not be easy for solution; there are many kinds of persons who drift from city to city, southward in the fall and northward in the spring, and who get help along the way by telling a great variety of hard luck stories to mayors and charitable organizations; there are many others who would cease to be dependent upon charity if they could reach relatives at some distant place; and there are still others who will be dependent upon charity wherever they are. Of this last class it may be said that it has been customary to pass them along as quickly as possible in the hope of putting the burden of their care upon some other community. Some of the transients are able-bodied men, some women and children, some crippled, some sick. Altogether their numbers equal a small army in the course of a year.

Co-operation among the cities would naturally tend to prevent so much "dumping," from which Savannah, as well as some other cities, has suffered a great deal, and it would enable mayors and charitable organizations to keep records of confirmed pauper travelers with a view to making those who are able-bodied do something to support themselves or face the penalties of laws against vagrancy and tend to stop the costly practice of paying railroad fare to shift paupers from city to city, a process that sometimes takes the same person around the South in a circle or sends him southward in November and northward in March or April. Some of the transients spend a large part of their time traveling at the expense of the community of the South; they truly "live on the country."

Each city seems to think that the easiest way to rid itself of these travelers is to pay their way to another city; but in the course of a number of years no city can find that it has profited thereby. And the cities that are so unjustly made the dumping point of nearby communities suffer a considerable loss. There is not a doubt that co-operation among the Southern cities will tend to make the evil less a burden; and so it is to be hoped that this whole section will be represented at the Jacksonville meeting and that co-operation to attack the evil will result.

COTTON IN 1916.

Memphis Commercial Appeal.

A story in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, dated New Orleans, is indicative of the recklessness of the statements some indulge in when writing for publication in a newspaper whose editors are not familiar with the question under discussion.

A New Orleans cotton expert says the acreage in 1916 will be increased 30 per cent over what it was in 1915. No one can tell at this moment whether the acreage will be increased 3 per cent, 30 per cent, or whether it will remain stationary.

Many conditions that will control the acreage in 1916 have not yet come into being. Even if it is in the mind of the growers to plant a large acreage in 1916 there may be obstacles in the way such as too much rain or drought at planting time which will thwart the intention.

In 1914 the cotton acreage was a record in bigness. The total acreage was 36,960,000 acres. The acreage, it is estimated, was reduced to 30,000,000 acres, and an increase of 30 per cent over 1915 would give an acreage of about 40,000,000 acres. With these facts in mind, the statement of a 30 per cent increase over 1915 is absurd.

There probably will be an increase over 1915. There are certain allurements in price that will draw some people into more cotton than they planted in 1915. We do not believe that with an extraordinarily condition of a big acreage that the average could reach what it was in 1914.

The government reports now indicate an increase in the wheat acreage over all the cotton states where wheat is grown except in Texas and Oklahoma.

The farmers throughout the South, so far as reports show, are practically unanimous in saying that they will try to raise enough foodstuffs for their own use. Some of the large Delta planters, having lands of extraordinary fertility, may materially increase their cotton acreage. Some of these may abandon all other crops, but we doubt that this number will be large. We are sure that in the St. Francis basin the work of diversification is going to continue.

It might be a fatal mistake if the south went back solely to cotton. Nothing is surprising these days. Suppose for an instant that England should lose command of the seas, and the United States should herself become involved in war. No cotton would be exported.

Suppose that even though England holds command of the seas, she will need all of her own ships for transportation of her troops. Then we cannot get any cotton out of the country.

Suppose that the German submarines continue to cut down the number of mercantile ships, then ship room is reduced.

Suppose our congressmen remain foolish and refuse to pass the Wilson shipping bill.

All of these contingencies make trusting to one crop precarious.

If our people plant the acreage in cotton that they did in 1914, and then each one tries to raise enough on his place to feed himself and his live stock, the problem will be made much simpler.

The thing that made for a high price in cotton this year was that in the fall the farmers found themselves supplied with an abundance of food, grown on their own places, for man and beast, and they were free in marketing their cotton. They did not dump the cotton on the market in October. In that month the buyers had to go to the farmers. The farmer was able to make the buyer come to him, because he did not have to go to town to buy rations and did not have to take his cotton to town to get the wherewithal to buy the rations.

There may be an increase in the cotton acreage, but no man is justified in saying that the increase will be 30 per cent. He might as well say it will be 40 per cent. He might be just as near the truth when he says it will be 10 per cent.

King Cotton in his rule in 1916 is still on the knees of the gods.

TUSKEGEE EDITOR HERE

Mr. C. W. Hare, editor of the Tuskegee News, is a distinguished visitor in Dothan today. He believes that Major Moton, the new head of the Tuskegee Institute, who is a full blooded negro, will ably fill the position occupied for many years by Booker T. Washington. "I remember one story I heard about Major Moton," said Mr. Hare, "which goes to show that he is a tactful and practical negro. Major Moton had been invited to a certain occasion in a large city. He heard that President Wilson and members of his family would be there at the same time. Major Moton modestly declined the invitation."

1916 Advertising Message To Business America

By JOSEPH H. FINN

President Nichols-Finn Advertising Co., Chicago.

Here to the New Year of Business in the New America!

Every year was born under a bright star of commercial promise for the United States, it is 1916. The Home Market holds America's destiny as never before.

Every business barometer registers good times ahead. If there is one pessimist of your acquaintance, tell him broadside with the staggering truths.

FIGURES may be dull—but these proclaim FACTS that are of TREMENDOUS import:

CROPS—America's bulwark—have reached their record mark. The nation's principal farm crops this year are worth about $5,500,000,000—over half a million dollars more than in 1914, the previous banner year.

CLEARANCES. The week ending December 4th, 1915, checks for $4,986,000,000 passed through the country's clearing houses—the largest amount ever handled in one week's time.

GOLD. Mr. Robert M. Woolley, director of the Mint, goes on record with the statement that the United States now has one-fourth of all the coined gold—the world's standard of value—a phenomenal condition.

THE HOME MARKET. The freight car shortage points a unmistakable finger to the enormous increase in the demand of the Home Market as well as shipments to the war countries.

RETAIL SALES. The biggest Christmas business in history is the cheering message from the retail shops. POSTAL RECEIPTS. Postmaster-General Burleson reports "postal receipts contain evidence of healthy and well-distributed prosperity in the country."

No matter where you look, you will find something to verify this good times message.

The big things for you to remember are——that Prosperity is NOT a mirage—a glorious prospect in the offing—it is an established fact—IT'S HERE—

—that in large measure the good times are NOT related to the needs and emergencies of European nations—

—that America is becoming more and more self-supporting——that Made-in-America—Made-by-Americans—Made-for-America—for American profit is becoming more and more the country's safeguard of business insurance for the future.

If this is selfishness—let's have more of it.
And, most of all, remember that real and lasting prosperity in this country is based on the HOME MARKET—and those who enjoy the biggest share of this prosperity will be they who realize what the Home Market means and who go most aggressively after it.

F. A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank of New York, an eminent financial authority, writes in "The Independent":

"There is capital available in this country to manufacture enterprise that will employ every man in the country without a dollar's worth of war business. If Great Britain and Germany each can raise approximately $6,000,000,000 in fifteen months for war purposes, what could the United States do for industry—for its own progress—if a spirit of unity and high purpose could direct its action?"

And that is the most vital New Year's thought! Perhaps the most important message that could be directed to Business America—the need for UNITY and ACTION.

Let's go constructively after the Home Market—let's educate home buyers—let's do it with a VI-TOGETHER. Let's use the power of the word. If you have goods to sell—let's ADVERTISE—and tell American consumers about them.

The way to accelerate prosperity in your direction is to seize upon this wonderful Home Market opportunity. NOW. Remember that the export business at best is an uncertain asset, resting upon the final action of the International Credits problem—first, the stabilization and then the protection of our own Merchant Marine.

What we have here at home WE KNOW 'EVE. Our riches are here—in the soil—in the banks. And every day, as conditions better, there is a wider distribution of this national wealth.

Croak—calamity howlers—need no longer wait for a return of the good old times. Here's times better than the old ones ever dared be!

Here is America's opportunity to grow a commercial power—to heights which a few years ago seemed unattainable.

But, as always, the reward goes to the who are willing and brave enough to act.

Business America today is a gold mine—but the man who would succeed must wield his own pick and pan his own pay-dirt. Lethargy is costly!

England, those who side-step military enlistment are known as slackers. And the commercial "slackers" in the United States—those who hesitate now about taking the proper measure of promotion activity and sales stimulation—are wasting I believe the most precious opportunity that comes in a lifetime.

Here is the Business New Year—yours to do with as you will.

America has the money. Here, people are thinking buying-thoughts.

With 1916 comes a new epoch of unexampled prosperity—for the wise men of this business generation.

With this New Year, you stand on the threshold of Opportunity.

Are YOU going to enter?

It's up to you—ADVERTISE ON THE HOME MARKET!

TEMPERANCE NOTES

Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union

PROHIBITION VICTORIES

(Excerpts from the address of Miss Anna A. Gordon, president National Woman's Christian Temperance Union before the forty-second annual convention of that organization, held in Seattle, Wash., October 9-14, 1915.)

Looking backward over the past twenty months and forward to the year 1916 one might epitomize the temperance movement in retrospect as a movement of victorious victories and confident tomorrows. These months chronicle an unprecedented number of prohibition victories. The temperance transformation of Russia, the anti-liquor measures in effect in Germany, French and English military circles, the complete abolition of alcohol in the United States navy and in the Panama Canal zone, the outlawing of the liquor traffic in Virginia, Colorado, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Iowa, Alabama and South Carolina, the majority vote for state-wide prohibition in both branches of Utah's legislature, the triumph of the enemies of the saloon in a large number of counties and cities, the upholding by the United States Supreme Court of the constitutionality of the prohibition provision of the Indian treaties, making one-fifth of Minnesota dry, the victorious prohibition elections in forty-five of Minnesota's counties, the battle royal for prohibition in the District of Columbia, the total abstinence rules enforced by many industrial and railroad corporations, the decrease at the rate of $1,250,000 a month of the internal revenue collections on distilled spirits, despite the fact that wines are paying a high tax as a result of the emergency war tax enacted by the last Congress, the enactment in prohibition states of strict enforcement laws, the discussion of total abstinence and prohibition by press and popular magazines, and the marked decrease of their liquor advertising; the growth of antitotalism sentiment in the medical world, these, with the influence of national constitutional prohibition by hundreds of industrial organizations and the potent declaration of non-potential in the official and political life of the United States and other nations in favor of prohibition and total abstinence have given a marvellous impetus to the movement for the banishment of John Barleycorn from the business, the social, and the political life of the civilized world. The majority vote on the Sheppard-Hobson bill in the United States house of representatives on December 22, 1914, even though it fell short of a decisive victory, was a triumph for nation-wide prohibition.

Because the alcohol disease is the deepest seated, most chronic organic disease known to the body politic and body social, the permanent cure must be not only organic state legislation, but organic national legislation. The object of a national prohibition amendment is to destroy the agency that debauches the youth of the land. The W. C. T. U. agrees with Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson when he asserts: "The liquor trust is wise enough to know that it cannot perpetuate its sway by depending on debauching grown people, so it uses an organic method of teaching the young to drink. We apply exactly the same method to destroy the traffic. We do not try to make old drinkers stop drinking, but we do aim to put a stop to the systematic, organized debauching of our youth through thousands and tens of thousands of agencies throughout the land."

It is not difficult for the student of temperance history to account for the deep conviction and the earnest way of many men and women who take are foremost in the great struggle against the drink monopoly. The boy who two score years ago was taught by a W. C. T. U. mother at the twilight hours to offer his childlike prayer for the temperance cause, as his hand rested tenderly upon his fifth head, is today a temperance warrior battling against home's most relentless foe. Boys and girls who, twenty-five and thirty years ago were taught by white ribbons to utter "Friends, King Alcohol, we shall grow up!" and whose hands, hearts, hands and feet received temperance training in public school, Sunday school, and Young Temperance Legion, are grown up and are rapidly overthrowing King Alcohol.

The history of our reform proves that it is well nigh impossible to take prohibition from a state constitution when once placed there by the voters of a commonwealth. Constitutional prohibition is not dependent upon party politics. Unlike a statutory law it is not at the mercy of each incoming legislature. The liquor traffic constantly defies the laws of the prohibition states. Nothing short of nation-wide prohibition will give to these states the power to effectively enforce their prohibition laws.

SNOW IN CALIFORNIA: CROP NOT DAMAGED

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 30.—Dawn today revealed at many points in the southern California citrus fruit district the remarkable spectacle of orange trees mantled with snow. It was a scene which had not been witnessed in years, but temperatures did not range below 32 degrees and the orange crop suffered no damage. Snow fell in Hollywood, a suburb of Los Angeles. Snow also fell in San Bernardino, Riverside, Altadena, Blythe, Bloomington and other places in the heart of the citrus region, but melted rapidly. Rain was falling before noon throughout the region.

IN EXTENDING NEW YEAR GREETINGS we also make a bid for your good will and patronage. We seek good will first because we value it more highly; we want your patronage, of course, but if we cannot have both your good will, we prefer good will.

We have been on trial in Dothan five and a half years, and while we are human and have made mistakes, so far as in our power they have been righted. If our goods did not make good, we did. We brought a new era of merchandising to Dothan when we came—preaching and practicing the religion of the brotherhood of man by preaching and practicing equal treatment of all.

We have believed a small business could be built by extending special favors to the few, but we never believed a large business could be built unless the same business rules were applied to all alike. The one unbendable rule established when we came here was, THE SAME PRICE TO EVERYBODY. This was unknown in Dothan and our friends advised against it. We believed it right and no human influence can swerve us from what believe is right. Our experience with this "One Price to All Alike" rule has been the same as that of the largest and best stores of the United States; we have made it serve i self right.

During this five and a half years we have never allowed the slightest misrepresentation to be made by anyone in our employ.

We have told the truth and nothing but the truth.

We have believed nothing too good to bring to Dothan, have brought it here while it was best at its fountain head.

We have seen no reason why Dothan women should dress differently to New York women. We mean Dothan's best women as compared with New York's best women—not the freaks from all quarters of the globe seen in New York. We have left nothing undone to bring about this condition. We believe we have done our part to help make Dothan women the best dressed in the state.

We feel grateful for the position we hold in Dothan and thank you.

We will always do all in our power to merit your good will and patronage.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Beauty Can Tell When Your Dark Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother lost her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or looked on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By using it at her dressing store, for years, her hair and Sulphur. You will get a large hair disappears; after another bottle of this old time recipe, ready to use for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sarsaparilla so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, for you simply dampen a comb with soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

TRUE KNIGHT

Within a bungalow doth dwell
A lady, and she—
Her name is little Daisy Dell—
And truly she loves me.
This lady of the bungalow,
She loves me very well, I know.

Sometimes when she goes down
The steps,
To take breath of air,
The sun shining or fall the rain,
I'm always promptly there;
Right at her side, a brave, true
Knight.

And subject to her wishes, quite
Her ma'am watches from the door—
Of their suburban shack,
But Daisy was at me before
She scarce turns her back.
And we go racing off, you see,
Two lovers, happy as can be.

Sometimes her pappy follows, too.
To guard her at her play;
Then I have nothing else to do
Except to run away—
And wait till he's gone to rest,
But still, I know she loves me best.

Her ma'am is a dear, no doubt,
And her one tek in life,
Is to see Daisy rigged out,
A lordly banker wife.
Her pappy is a set, a log,
But I'm her precious, puddle dog.

Here is the story of a man who long suffered with stomach troubles—how his health slowly failed and how in the end he made a rapid recovery—a joyous surprise.

Jerome Nichols, of Mobile, for considerably more than a year knew he was not in good health.

One day, by good fortune, he learned of Mayer's Wonderful Remedy.

In a short time he found himself with new life and energy. He was so well pleased to be cured that he used the truly remarkable remedy, Mayer's Wonderful Remedy, for a letter from Mr. Nichols will tell you his experience.

"I received your medicine and was very anxious to continue the treatment. After taking three doses I felt better than I have felt in a year. I have passed several bad colds, stomachs, besides other ailments. Eat as much and as often as you like. No more distress after eating. Pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your remedy now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned."
